Dear Kaiyuan Zhao,

After reviewing your CV and conducting an interview, we have decided to offer you a coop job position at EYEnexo LLC, a spin-off startup company of Schepens Eye Research Institute, Harvard Medical School. This position will start from January 10, 2019 and ends on August 10, 2019. EYEnexo LLC focuses on innovative smartphone-based vision screening and vision therapy technologies. Filling this position, you will be mainly involved in several development projects that are at early or commercialization stages. We hope you will be able to make contribution to our translational studies, and also at the same time benefit from the research experience.

You will be paid at an hourly rate of $20/hour. The compensation can be reviewed and increased based on merit after a first initial training period. In extremely unlikely cases, which have never occurred to us before, coop students cannot meet our minimum requirements during the internship, the employment may be terminated.

We are looking forward to working with you.

Sincerely,

Matteo Tomasi, PhD
CEO
EYEnexo LLC
